*healthier profits
come from healthier plants . . .
and the healthiest rhododendrons come from Van Veen Nursery*

Here's why the Fall Liners you order from Van Veen Nursery are Bigger—Healthier—and Better branched:

1

All Van Veen Rhododendrons are cutting-grown and guaranteed to be true to name.

2

Good, solid root systems are insured by transplanting from cutting benches to open benches in the greenhouse and then to the lath house.

3

Trained and experienced rhododendron-growing experts give constant care through every stage of propagation.

4

Van Veen Nursery has pioneered the use of scientific propagation facilities—including electric heat and humidification systems.

Order Today For Top Priority

Orders must be reserved in the order in which they are received.

terms:

Established Accounts may deduct 1% if full payment is received within 10 days of our invoice, which will be mailed to you the day following shipment. The NET is due in 30 days.

New Accounts please send 50% prior to shipment. (We will meet you half way.) Prompt payment upon receipt of plants will establish you as an account for future orders.

As is customary in the industry, our clients choose the method, and pay for transportation. Motor Freight on the West Coast is completely satisfactory, but our Eastern accounts prefer Railway Express or Air Freight. In most instances Air charges are but a couple pennies more per plant. The average weight of a fully packed carton containing 35 Fall Liners is 50 pounds.

All shipments bear a certification of health by the State of Oregon Department of Agriculture.

You must be well pleased with the quality of our stock. Should we make an error, it will be rectified promptly. Please let us know immediately if you are not entirely satisfied. Of course, shipping damage claims should be made to your carrier at once.
